

Emotional Intelligence

- Reflect on your emotions and actions daily by writing in a journal.
- Reward yourself for a job well done by taking breaks after spending a long time working or treating yourself to something after a period of productivity.
- Practice meditation to quietly reflect and gain more control over your emotions.
- Increase your awareness of the differences in people, cultures, and worldviews to understand other people's perspectives.